Permanent Link to Airbus, Lime Microsystems Partner on Robust Galileo Receiver
2021/05/27

Lime Microsystems and Airbus Defence and Space, with funding from Innovate UK (formerly the Technology Strategy Board), will jointly be developing robust GNSS products, according to a Lime Microsystems blog. Airbus D&S, using Lime's Field Programmable RF (FPRF) transceiver technology, is developing a robust timing receiver that exploits signals from the new Galileo satellite navigation constellation. A highly integrated Field Programmable RF (FPRF) solution based on Lime's technology, and an innovative system implementation of the kind provided by Airbus D&S, will provide a high-performance GNSS product with the potential for integration with other wireless capabilities, the companies said. "Lime FPRF transceiver matches our rigorous technical performance requirements and we are looking forward to be working alongside Lime in this strategic engagement," said Mike Turner, Airbus D&S. "We are delighted to be working with Airbus, supporting a complimentary technology that could impact variety of applications such as wireless infrastructure," said Ebrahim Bushehri, CEO of Lime Microsystems.
